Their advantages over individual executors. In reading of the numerous cases of contested wills reported by the daily press one is forcibly reminded of that old familiar adage, "There's many & slip 'twist the cup and the lip." Yot it will generally be found upon examination of each case that the trouble was due to the inefficiency, inexperience, lack of confidence in or dishonesty of the executor. Heirs often become dissatisfied because they do not think the estate is being administered as the testator intended or to the best pecuniary advantage. Naming a friend as executor is loading him with a great responsibility, especially if he is already a busy man and unfamiliar with the technicalities of law and finance.

There are many legal points involved in administering an estate, and unless the executor is experienced and acquainted with the law he is at a disadvantage in discharging the provisions of the will.

If you name this company as executor of your will, and have it drawn under our supervision, you need never fear of its being broken.

The officers in charge of the Trust Department of this Company are thoroughly experienced in the intricacies of law and finance. When you are ready to attend to this important matter we will be glad to give you the benefit of our knowledge and experience. This company has securities to the amount of a fourth of its entire capital deposited with the Comptroller of the Treasury for the faithful discharge of all trusts.

Wills naming this company as executor are drawn free and kept free of charge.

THE CLEVELAND LETTER.

Secretary Foster Thinks It Full of the Secretary Foster of the Treasury Department says that he does not see much in the Cleveland

"The letter," he said to a STAR reporter, "is full of the usual Cleveland platitudes, and there is nothing new in it. He does not depart from the position of his party on the tariff. He begs the question a little, but, on the whole, he stands by the declarations of his party. There are a good many things in the letter which it will require a very superior order of under-standing to comprehend. What he says about the currency is greatly involved, but if you can get anything out of it, it is an indorsemen of the state banks if they are made good enough. He appears to be in favor of state banks if they are good ones. He skims over the 'force bill' and does not say as much about it as I thought he would. He talks very adroitly about pensions, but there is nothing he can say on that subject which will not be considered in correction; the incorrection of the same and the same and the same are say on the same are say of the same are say a not be considered in connection with his record on that question. In one place he condemns pauper and contract immigration and in another he speaks in favor of immigration. He does not seem to want to say any more than he has to."

A DRAMATIC SUICIDE.

Ex-Sergeant-at-Arms Canaday Takes

Assistant Postmaster General E. G. Rathbone said: "It strikes me that Mr. Cleveland has made a studied effort to avoid saying anything or to make what he says intelligible. He has not the literary ability nor the material for such a letter as that of Mr. Harrison. He does not depart materially from the platform of his party. He tries to put their declarations in a less objectionable form, but it all amounts to the same thing. His reference to the pension question is very adroit."

Speaking of the general political situation
Mr. Rathbone said that he had been in New York and Ohio and that he found that the republicans were generally confident, but felt that they must work hard. "The most re-markable thing," he said, "is the dense silence observed by nearly every one. I never knew of anything like it before. Sometimes I think it ominous. You know that when the Indian scout reported that he saw no signs and heard no sound of Indians his chief said that he guessed that was a sign that there were Indians about." event were dramatic in the extreme and leave behind them minor mysteries that may never be EX-REPRESENTATIVE KING IS ENTHUSIASTIC.

A Striking Feature.

From the Rockville (Md.) Sentinel. A striking feature of the G. A. R. encampment at Washington city, during this week, was the daily illustrated mammoth edition of THE EVENING STAR. The illustrations embraced all points of interest both in and around the capital, together with a vivid picture of the immense procession and fine likenesses of many hundreds of prominent people who took part in the affair. Many thousand copies of the several editions were sent by the veterans to their friends in all parts of the country.

Cholera Decreasing in St. Petersburg. The Secretary of State has received a report from the United States charge at St. Petersburg. under date of September 7, upon the progress of the cholera in that city. The charge, Mr. Wurts, says there is a notable decrease in the number of cases. One case occurred in the building where the U. S. legation is situated, but no alarm was occasioned. The emperor and empress visited a number of cholera hos-pitals in person and cheered the patients lying ill of the disease there.

this week. On Tuesday, the 20th, they issued a special edition, called the Grand Army edition, comprising twenty pages, containing a full and complete account of the entire encampment. Elegant cuts of portraits of prominent officers and different scenes of the encampment were distributed profusely through the pages. The articles were all interesting and ably edited.

The door of an office rented by a Capt. Houghton, who had some partnership relations with Col. Canaday. There was not much light in the room—it was too early—but Mr. Stevenson managed to distinguish the outlines of some-body standing near the window.

Mr. Stevenson hesitated; he was cautious. "What do you want?" he asked. "Come here," said the spectral figure, for it was garbed in white. That was not a satisfactory response, so Mr. Stevenson repeated his query, with a edition, called the Grand Army edition, com-

WITHOUT A COUNTRY

REAPPORTIONMENT IN WISCONSIN.

Reception of the Remains of Gilmore at New York.

FALL OF A SCAFFOLDING.

MEN WITHOUT A COUNTRY.

Cannot Go On. LONDON, Sept. 27 .- The Cunard steam line, having grown tired of maintaining the emigrants from Hamburg who had bought tickets by way of the line at boarding houses in tickets by way of the line at boarding house in Liverpool, and seeing no early prospect of being able to dispose of them by transportation to America, offered to return to the emigrants the amount of their fares. The majority of the emigrants refused to accept the offer and insisted on being conveyed to the United States. The company then notified the keepers of the boarding house in which the emigrants had been maintained that the company would no, longer be responsible for their support. Thereupon the landiords turned the emigrants out of doors. The emigrants applied to the authorities, but the latter declined to admit the strangers to the workhouse, as the poorhouses are called in England, and now the unfortunate foreigners are wandering about the streets, the police force not wishing to arrest them and nobody willing to have anything to do with them.

WISCONSIN'S REAPPORTIONMENT. It is Decided by the State Supreme Court to Be Invalid.

Madison, Wis., Sept. 27 .- The supreme court this morning rendered a decision declaring the apportionment made by the extra session of the legislature invalid. Judge Winslow dissents. Another session will doubtless be called and the legislature will make another attempt to conform to the rulings of the court.

HONORS TO GILMORE

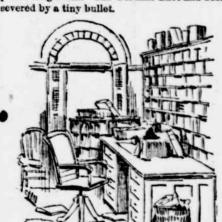

Receiving the Remains of the Bar at New York. New York, Sept. 27.-The body of Patrick Sarsfield Gilmore arrived at the Grand Central depot this morning. On the funeral train, accompanying the body, were Mrs. P. S. Gilmore and her daughter Minnie, the committee of three from the Gilmore Band, Lawrence O'Reilly, Wm. Schultz and Herman Schultz, and three directors of the Musical Protective Association, who met the train at Poughkeepsic this morning. Long before the time the train was due crowds of friends and associates of the dead leader had gathered at the depot. At 8 o'clock the train arrived. Musicians had formed in two long lines from the train to the waiting conlong lines from the train to the waiting car-riages without. Behind these lines, crowding every corner of the spacious depot and the street, were thousands of people, who stood with uncovered heads from the train's arrival.

Mr. Stevenson has only been an occupant of the house for few nights, so he could not easily locate the noise. At first he imagined it came from some drunken man in the alley; then he thought the cries were uttered by some sick person within the house.

The sounds continuing, Mr. Stevenson raised a window and called out: "What do you want?"

are you?" was the next inquiry. "Are you down stairs?" "Yes," said the voice. "Are you in the room below?" asked Mr. Stevenson. "Yes," Thereupon Mr. Stevenson put on a few additional garments, went down stairs and opened white. That was not a satisfactory response, so Mr. Stevenson repeated his query, with a little emphasis added. Then Col. Canaday, for it was he, said: "Come in and cut me down." The First Building to Be Known as Abraham Lincoln Hall.

If a plan that developed Sunday works out all right the first building of the great American University which is to be established here will be known as the Abraham Lincoln Memorial Hall.

The first step was made apparent Sunday when a large number of little envelopes were distributed throughout the congregation of Metropolitan M. E. Church (corner 4½ and C streets). Each envelope called for a subscription of $1 and a large sum was immediately raised to be applied to the erection of the Lincoln Memorial Hall.

Each subscriber will receive a beautiful aluminium souvenir medal. No one will be permitted to subscribe more or less than $1 and the promoters expect to have $60,000 subscriptions in a little while.

Collector Forney of the Standard Put Of a Train Suspected of Having the Cholera. CHICAGO, Sept. 27. - William Forney, collector for the Standard Oil Company, left New York for the Standard Oil Company, left New York for San Francisco Friday on the Pennsylvania limited express. Yesterday morning he was taken sick on the train between Pittsburg and Alliance, Ohio, and the conductor, fearing he had cholera, put him off the train. He took the next train, arriving here about 5 o'clock last night. He went to the central police station and asked to be sent to the hospital. He was taken to the Mercy and Michael Reese Hospitals and was refused admission at both, because it was feared he had the cholera, despite his protestations to the contrary. He was then returned to the central station, where they sent returned to the central station, where they sent him to the office of Health Commissioner waren. The patient was him to the office of Health Commissioner Warren. The patient was suffering intensely, but he assured those around him that he was not a cholera suspect.

He told a health officer his story and that official promptly told Mr. Forney he would have to go to the pest house if he had the cholera and then hurried away. Finally a physician was summoned to the health office, who examined Mr. Forney and said the man did not have the cholera, advising him to go to a hotel. Mr. Forney was thereupon taken to the Commercial, where he remained during the night. Mr. Forney's uncle, W. T. Wardwell, is treasurer of the Standard Off Company. Mr. Forney says he will sue the Pennsylvania railroad for damages for putting him off the train at Alliance.
